

University of Illinois Chicago

The University of Illinois Chicago (UIC) is not part of the One Click College Admit direct admission program, which includes 10 of the 12 state of Illinois public universities. Admission to UIC is conducted using a holistic review process. Through this competitive application review, students are admitted directly into their academic program of choice.

Details of the UIC application process can be found on their admissions website - Admissions| University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign. Additionally, students can use the Common App to review admission details and to submit all required admission materials directly to UIC.

Application Fee waivers are available for those who qualify. Details on fee waivers for UIC are explained at University of Illinois Chicago Fee waiver. If a student applies directly to UIC via their website, they will need to work with their high school counselor to file the fee waiver. If the student uses the Common App, as noted in their admissions blog, the fee waiver determination is simplified.
